ensuing October, when Coles falled; they then found that difficulties were in the way of proceeding with the experiments, and a new agreement was entered into, which was, that Sargent and Coles were only to contribute their labors, and Carpenter and Pierson were to take 900 shares—Carpenter 600 and Pierson 300. Mow it will be remembered that at that time of this last agreement Carpenter was owner of 600 shares. Wm 6. Pierson of 300, and Coles and and Sargean to fifty each. By and by it was suggested that a boring apparatus should be procured. Now it will be remembered that Pierson was in this city and Carpenter up at the scene of operations. He will be remembered that Pierson and that he was coming down; and he did come down, and that he was coming down; and he did come down, and went to Pierson's office, and not finding him there he wrote a letter and left it on his deek together with some bits of silver, which it was said were found in the sunken ship; and cautioned Pierson upon no account to sell out any of the stock at any price. This was in the fall of the year, and up to this time Carpenter never furnished a shilling of the expenses; the whole was borne by Pierson, and in order to enable him to go on he had to sell a part of the stock. But before I proceed further, I will read to you a letter that Carpenter wrote to Pierson.

Mr Sickies still objected.

The Court decided that Mr. Jordan had a right to state the substance of the letter in his speech.

Mr. Jordan, in continuation, said the letter was written by Carpenter on the lith of July-stating that two of the men had been down, and from what they had seen, he was perfectly satisfied that the Kidd ship was there, and that he was coming down in the next boat to New York, and begged him. Pierron, not to sell the stock at any price. Carpenter, at the time of leaving the letter, desired that Pierron should not exhibit the pipe until he. Carpenter, was present, and that he would be there at 12 o'clock the next day with some friends, who wanted some of the stock Gentlemen, this pipe was wrought iron in which the august that was to be used for boring was to be inserted. Somewhere along the latter part of the season this boring took place, and at this time the bubble was at its height but not withstanding the success of the santerprise, the fluiding of the gun and the scrape of silver. Carpenter up to this time never advanced a dollar of the expenses; on the 15th March. 1844 he sold of shares of the stock to Pierson, and I think in the course of this trial I will show you that he continued to indict the bubble, and that he did not care who bought the stock, provided he himself sold it. On the 8th of January 1845, he again sold Person 60 charce, and on the 3d of March 1845, he sold him 20 shares, and on the 3d of March 1845, he sold Person 60 charce, and on the 3d of March 1845, he sold Person 60 charce, and on the 3d of March 1845, he sold him 20 shares and on the 2so of April, in the same year, he sold 180 charce for $2000. Pierson being acquainted with Sheldon, he suggested to him to purchase 15 shares for him, and this was the first time that this gentleman had any thing to do with the Kidd aslvage affair, and accordingly Person bought from Garpenter's branch from the substantial properties of the proceedings, it could not be expected that he could fully understand the cash, and the mi and did not reach it. In the apring of 1847, the terminated, a new lease was alterwards taken and a new company formed, and this was the first that Freeland and Sheldon had anything te do the concern except the trifling amount of scots by Sheldon. Mr. Gracle, after the new pany was formed started up, and insisted he belonged to it or was a member of it; the shers objected and said be had nothing to do with not that they were not bound to work for his bone. [Mr. Mather objected to the question as to what Mr. Jordan said, but at that gentleman's personal desire the objection was withdrawn, and the witness proceeded.]

Mr. Jordan came in, and asked if Mr. Wilkes was within; witness told him he was not, but he was in town, and asked him whether he wanted to see him particularly, and whether he should send him to his (Mr. Jordan's) office. Particularly to Mr. Sheldon and Mr. Freeland, audthereason of his wishing to see him was to knew whether he would be ready to publish in his paper such a statement as would do those persons justice. If the facts were turnished to him, Mr. Wilkes and he had one great injustice to read the properties of the police of the line of the conversation but the kild Salvage Company was not a question that could be tried in any of those causes, and that they never had had an opportunity to contraid what he had stated was justified by the result of some trials in which Carpenter was not a very much abused man; there was then some conversation that part of the conversation but that was made the first observation; did not remander any one s part of their designs, and the question was put: In which suits was Mr. Jordan Shelson's Freeland's counsel?

Witness—In a civil suit in which Shelson, Pierson, Freeland, Coit, Coles, Cram. Lynch, Norris, Lounsberry, and Mahone were defendants; in a chancery case, where Gracie was the plantiff, and in the Common Pleas, where Carpenter was plaintiff, and Shelson and others defendants. Mr Jordan was attorney General from January 1. 1838, to January 1. 1838, to January 1. 1838, to January 1. 1838, Witness had seen William N. Andros; thought he first saw him in court, in a case of Carpenter against Shelson and others, in the civil court, when he believed Andros was examined as a witness for the defendants; had seen Mrs. Andros; should say at his office; and Mr. Andros too; Mr. Jordan had seen him on one or more occasions, when he has been there, they called to see Mr Jordan, and had interviews, but witness could not say upon any particular occasions, did not remember that Sheldon brought him the first time; his impression was that Andros had come abose; had never seen any meameric experiments, did not know a Mrs. Hill, a meameries, or a Miss Leunoine; had seen T. F. I oung when he had called to see Mr Jordan; houng was examined in Carpenter had been indicated as an accessory in passing counterfeit money.

Re-examined—Did not know of any employment of Andros or Young by Mr. Shelden or Mr. Freeland or the Kidd Salvage Company, beyond having him called up and examined as a witness; recollected Mr. Jordan saying to Mr. Wilkes, when that employ was having him called up and examined as a witness; recollected Mr. Jordan saying to Mr. Wilkes, when that employ was heard that he called at his office to see him, but did not flad him there.

It being then half past two o'clock, the court took a receas for an hour. On their re assembling—Mr. Henry Green was called and examined—Witness is a news agent, residing at 21 Myrtie aronue, and knews that the Police Gravite circulates in the city of Brocklyn, the copy produced was one of the same papers as witness was in the habit of circulating, to witness's knowledge, they had circulated for fice years. By the Court—Every Issue! Witness could not say he sold them every week.

week the last four years.

Cross examined by Mr. Brady—Couldn't swear he sold a copy of one of 20th October. 1849, as he was not always in the store to say he sold them personally; he was not an agent, but a dealer who bought and sold them again; he bought them of Mr. Derter in Ann street. New York, did not know the defendant, Mr. Wilken.

Mr. W. A. Coltexamined—Was alwayer, living in New York; was acquainted with Mr. Scheiden and Mr. Freeland; there was an association of individuals known as "The Kidd Salvage Company," Mears, Sacidan and Freeland belonged to it; the old one expired and the new one got up let May, 1818, Sheldon and Freeland belonged to the new one, which was the only one in exist me at that time; knew the defendants in the sulbrought by Carpenter Sheldon and Freeland; the defendants therein named were the same parties he aliuded to, and Mr. Pierson was one of them.

Cross examined by Mr. Brady.—Knew there was such an association by the actions of the parties; some of the members were engaged in the operations they proposed to carry on, witness was up the river when they were excavating for the supposed treasure, in 1840, December, 1845, or January, 1840 Mr. W. S. Pierson, a New York lawyer, and if B. Coles, were engaged in it and Thomas dargeant; witness had some of the stock of the old company, which he had from Mr. Pierson; has acted as attorney for them in some respects, but never acted for the old company, Mr. Brady then handed some decuments to witness, who proved Fierwon's handwriting the first over a scheme or prospectus of the Kidd Salvage Company, dated is June, 1844 in the name of Sargeant & Co. the second one in that of Pierson & Co. Another was a certificate or sale from Pierson to Carpeater, of ten shares reserved stock.

Mr. Brady - The first of those documents is in the name of Sargeant & Co.; the second Pierson & Co. When dityon first heartfar association called the Kidd.

es were examined in relation to the Kidd stock; had no personal knowledge whether Carpenter was concerned in the old company; the old company fell through by the expiration of the lease; the Kidd Salvage Company was the popular name of the association; it was as well known by that name as the Oity Prison of New York is known by the name of "The Tombs."

Cross-examination resumed — Knew hundreds who knew them by that title out of courts of justice; witness knew that Freeland and Sheldon were both manbers of the company and several notices in public papers appeared, by which the public could know it. Re examination by Mr. Jordan — He had been a resident in the city for 14 years, and came in contact with a large portion of the community; all that he did come in contact with knew it well; they were as often taked of as the Kidd Salvage Company, as they were taked of at all, and were universally known by that name.

talked of at al., and were universally above to name.

Mr. Jordan then proposed to read the libel, which had not been done, but Mr. Brady contented that there was no proof of the publication. After some discussion, the Court thought there was prima face evidence for the Jury, who were, in cases of the individual of law and fact—and Mr. Moore then read the alleged libel as follows:—

"Jordan was the private counsel of a band of swindlers, known as the Kidd Salvage Company, who robbed Carpenter of several thousand dollars. Carpenter sued and obtained heavy dumages from them in despite of Jordan, and then expeed their villany, whereupon they employed a counterfeiter to impugn his character, tool in the police to acreat him."

Mr. Brady, on behelf of the defendant, regretted that he had only come into court during the latter part of the day's proceedings; he had, for what he considered good reasons, thought that the cause would have been adjourned, and was, consequently, unprepared to address the jury upon the case ac concisely as he would otherwise have done, and hoped he would be allowed a little latitude. He this was the most extraordinary case of indictment, for libel, that had were been brought before a seart of justice. They, the gentlemen of the jury, were, as the learned Judge had stated, the judges of both law and fact in ruch cases as the present; and although the court would tell them the cardinal police liber of the case according to their concelences.
It had been said this was the law in all criminal cases but it was not so. In libel, however, the principle had been established after the attengale of ages. According to the old doctrine of the English list, the core of an alteration in that respect, and whereas it had been shown the respect, and whereas it had been the oustom for the judgest to pronounce whether or not the writing complained of was a libel; such ma as Lord Demman and Lord Tenterden would now leave it to the jury. One most eminent judge in that country had used succi large such as a libel in the order of the writing complained of was a libel; such ma
as Lord Demman and Lord Tenterden would now leave it to the jury. One most eminent judge in that country district before it had been swom. The Judge had decided this was clearly a libel, and it changed the adventure of the purpose the district before it had been swom. The Judge had decided this was clearly a lib es. But it was the last necessity of the law, and never done except in a case of necessity; and what was the law on the matter? that they should never convict on the evidence of an ascomplice alone. The accomplice who comes forward to testify against his former companions loses the last claim for consideration which is left to the most abandonod; idellity to their companions in crime is the last trait the merest wretch has of humanity, and when as the price of his own miserable life or liberty he abandons that, he sinks to the lowest depths of rank and totid pollution. How did the matter stand when Carpenter was put upon his trial, and these men called to the stand? Andres came forward after a lapse of two years. If both parties were equally guilty, what advantage could accrue in taking one out of the State prison to put the other there? Andros had been pardoned by Governer Young on the condition he would testify against Carpenter. It was a reward for priyary offered by the Gowsmor to the wretch, when he came to the stand, as the only medium of saving himself. Yeung had been pardoned out of the State prison of Massachusetts on the same condition, and came on the stand, and it was in connection with this trial, as a public journalist, that the article complained of was written. When they looked at one indictment, they learn it had been foundion Andros' evidence, charging Carpenter as an accessory after the fact. Tays all knew what an accessory after the fact mas.
